

Hound Comics, Inc. (Hound Entertainment Group) is a privately owned publishing and multi-media company encompassing all aspects of the entertainment industry. Hound is dedicated to providing top-notch entertainment including projects ranging from comic books to film and many things in between. The flagship brand, "Brimstone and The Borderhounds" has grown in leaps and bounds since its inception in 2005 to its eventual launch on October 31st, 2010 in Borders Book stores across the United States.

Re-launched on January 11, 2011 in limited Barnes & Noble retail locations, Hound Comics made history as the only independently owned and operated comic book company to be distributed in a big box retailer alongside other iconic companies such as Marvel and DC. Over time, Brimstone and The Borderhounds quickly garnered popularity and was cherry-picked by Barnes & Noble to be sold and distributed in more than over 700 of their nationwide retail locations; as well as in their affiliate retail outlets network of B. Dalton.

Shortly following this expansion, Diamond Comic Distributors accepted the series for distribution in their independent retail locations across the globe. In addition to the in-store sales, the Borderhounds title has also been made available for online purchase via BN.com (Barnes & Noble), Amazon, ComicFleaMarket.com, and through HoundComics.com. The title is also available digitally on iTunes, Drivethrucomics.com, Wowio.com, MyDigitalComics.com, and Amusedom. In 2012, Hound Comics had acquired over twenty new titles for publication including "Twisted Perception" by the WWE's Rob Van Dam and "The Protector" (which was featured on the National Geographic Channel). "The Revival" and "The Chronicles of Mayre," two of Hound's other publications, have both been featured on AMC's Comic Book Men. As of 2015, Hound Comics division has become such a force within the industry, that it reaps the benefits of having its products seen weekly on the award winning CBS hit series, The Big Bang Theory since season seven and has also had its titles featured on the digital comic one-stop-shop, ComiXology.

Over the course of 2011, Hound has expanded its brand by launching several new divisions aimed at specific markets. The Hound Kids division, launched on October 31st, 2011, features not only the children's book series the Border-Pups (a version of the popular Borderhounds characters aimed at children ages 5 - 10) but also books by the legendary Wookiee, Peter 'Chewbacca' Mayhew (Star Wars) that features the artwork of veteran 17 year Disney artist, Terry Naughton (Beauty and the Beast, Little Mermaid, Lion King). Also included in the initial launch was the inaugural children's series, "Turbie the Turtle Duck" by Emmy and Peabody award winning writer, producer, and director Rich Arons (He-Man, Animaniacs, Tiny Toons). In 2013, Hound Entertainment came to an agreement with Alec Urbach, the teenage creator of Worldwide Comics, who produces global educational comic books for elementary school children which tackle pressing social issues. A portion of proceeds from the Worldwide collection goes to fund underserved elementary schools in the US, Africa, and South America, and have been translated into four languages other than English. The Hound Kids division continues to produce top of the line fun and educational products that will see considerable growth in 2015 with Hound's school and library initiative in accordance with the legendary, Stan Lee's - The Stan Lee Foundation, which promotes literacy in children.

Hound Publishing premiered with its first release, "In Jamie's Words", a book aimed at countering the growing nationwide epidemic of bullying, written by teen activist, Jamie Isaacs. Ms. Isaacs is the youngest person in history to have ever helped to propose, write, and eventually pass a bill in New York State. Partial proceeds from the book are donated to the Jamie Isaacs Foundation for Anti-Bullying. As of 2015, the Hound Publishing Division publishes over a dozen novels from non-fiction to fiction including our extremely popular Webcomic series' including "On The Grind", "Wages of Sin", and "Peanizels."

Hound Entertainment licensed properties have spawned numerous products and projects including Brimstone and The Borderhounds: The Animated Series (currently in development). The animated series is being produced by Floating Pear Productions with project manager Linda Walsh (Nickelodeon) and offers a pop culture sandwich of celebrity voice-overs including Peter Mayhew (Star Wars), AJ Pero (Twisted Sister), Claire Unabia (America's Next Top Model), Brutus Beefcake and Kaval (WWE), Robb Demarest (Ghost Hunters International), theme music by guitar master Ron 'Bumblefoot' Thal (Guns N' Roses), and many more celebrity and surprise guests.

The popular e-series, Food Hound: Tidbits, has become a favorite among fans and has essentially become a mainstay division in the Hound Entertainment Group. The Food Hounds have enjoyed three seasons of foodie bliss while touring around the United States and are currently in talks about bringing the series to network television.

2012 saw licensing agreements with Little Brass Bird (Plush Toys), Blue Rocket Labs (Interactive Mobile Apps), Eastsport (Brimstone and The Borderhounds Branded Backpacks, Bumblefoot Branded Signature Guitar Cases, Jene Luciani Branded Pocket Book Line, & Legends of Wrestling Backpack Line), and CaJohn's Fiery Foods (Brimstone, Food Hound & Bumblefoot Branded Seasonings, BBQ Sauces, Hot Sauces, Finishing Sauces and Salsa). Over the course of the next few years, Hound licenses have expanded tremendously including Brimstone fragrances with Demeter Fragrances, Dragon Song Forge (Brimstone branded swords), 3 Coconut Monkey (Plush Dolls & Collectible Figures), Troll Lord Games (Brimstone and The Borderhounds RPG - Role Playing Game), The Jerky Connection (Brimstone Sweet Heat Jerky Treat), Butterwinks! (Hound branded line of cookies), Nifty Candy (Hound branded candies), Serenity Custom Drums (Brimstone Custom Drums), and countless others. Through these relationships, Hound merchandise can be found in retailers including, but not limited to, Wal-Mart's, Walgreens, and Barnes & Noble as well as reputable web based retailers such as EBags.com, Amazon, and thousands of others.

Hound is proudly endorsed by Eastsport, Bulky Boy Clothing, Copic Markers, and Autodesk: Sketch Book Pro. Furthermore, Hound has made it a point to expand its community and global responsibility by partnering with the Ad Counsel, truth, Project Meridian Foundation, The Hero Initiative, The Arthritis Foundation, Get-A-Voice, Short Stack, and The Stan Lee Foundation. As of 2015, Hound has strategically aligned themselves with internet power players such as Loot Crate, Yelp, and Zombie Survival Crew (alongside Norman Reedus and Michael Rooker); celebrity driven apps including WhoSay, Tweet Secret, and Weev; and pioneering companies including but not limited to Fogo De Chao (International 5-star restaurant chain) and CoKreerate (3D Printing). Hound Entertainment and CoKreerate have together received national acclaim for working together in order to make history with the first ever 3D printed comic book cover.

The mainstream media has been extremely accepting of Hound and specifically its flagship brand, Brimstone and The Borderhounds. The brand has also been praised by kings of the industry including Jim Lee (DC), Bob Sabouni (Marvel) and even the Legendary Stan Lee. Stan Lee spotlighted Hound on his official website with a title that read, "Hound Comics: Embodying the True Meaning Behind 'Excelsior' – Rising Up in a Rough Industry." Hound has also been featured in other published bestselling books such as "The Bra Book" by Jene Luciani and "Worth Every Penny" by Sarah Petty & Erin Verbeck. Hound's collections of sauces, seasoning, and salsa have received countless awards from all America's saucy cities since their inception including notable 1st Place wins at the Chili Pepper Awards. In 2014, Hound Entertainment Group proved that they are making moves by taking home an award via the Rulebreaker Awards held in New York City and sponsored by Microsoft and Skype.

Hound Entertainment supports its products by touring across the country with stops at just about every major pop culture and comic book convention from Wizard World to New York Comic Con. Hound prides itself on their one-on-one relationship with fans while on the road; meeting with old fans while continuing to gain new. Hound's internal celebrities, celebrity clients and world-renowned artists travel thousands of miles daily to meet and greet with the fans. Other events include private appearances, public speaking events at schools, colleges, libraries, philanthropic ventures and festivals.

As of January 2015, Hound opened up their new location in Bethpage, NY as their company headquarters and one stop shop for all of Hound related products.